Overview

Noelle McCullough is a family law associate, with a background in drafting legal documents across all phases of divorce proceedings. Noelle provides comprehensive support to her clients by analyzing financial statements and marital estates, ensuring that every aspect of her clients' situations is thoroughly considered. Noelle is adept at conducting detailed legal research, drafting motions, preparing for both trial and mediation, and crafting memorandums that highlight relevant statutory and case law. She has completed both a 40-hour mediation training course and a specialized mediation training course in family law, further enhancing her ability to facilitate constructive resolutions for her clients.

Her passion for family law is deeply personal; as a child of divorce herself, Noelle understands the emotional complexities that children of divorce face. She is committed to providing empathetic, knowledgeable support to her clients and their families during challenging times. Noelle's blend of professional ability and personal insight positions her as a compassionate advocate in the field of family law.

While in college, Noelle studied abroad in Rome, Italy and Norwich, England. While in law school, Noelle was a constitutional law teaching assistant for two professors.
